Peter Blasl

“Inspired By Nature”

January 9 – February 21, 2010

Reception: Saturday January 16; 2:00-4:30 PM

Peter Blasl, a lifelong resident of the East End of Long Island, loves shooting nature: birds, animals, flowers, and the scenic vistas of the East End. He loves hiking and canoeing, tries to catch the sunrise every day, has traveled many places, but loves the East End of Long Island. Peter thinks you cannot get more beautiful blue skies than those on the East End, thanks to the reflection of the surrounding seas. It's all about light and capturing moments in time, he says.

He was the photographer for The North Shore Sun from 2005 to 2009, and won numerous awards for his photos, including NYPA Better Newspaper Contest awards for spot news photos, sports action, sports feature, feature and art photos. His work has also been published in Newsday.

Peter lives in Riverhead with his wife, award-winning journalist Denise Civiletti, their two teenaged daughters and three dogs.
