Elena Soterakis

“Silent Beauty”

November 2 – December 2

Reception: Saturday November 3; 2:00-4:00 PM

New York born artist Elena Soterakis studied painting in Paris, France and Florence, Italy, and received her BFA from the School of Visual Arts in New York City. Upon graduation, she returned to Italy for a year to pursue painting further, where she adopted Renaissance painting techniques and created a body of work that documented her life abroad. For Soterakis, “The act of painting mimics the process of being. I am reminded of the wonderment of our world and my place in it”.

The artist’s Group Exhibitions have included most recently "Rejuvenation: Inspiration of Hope", La Vuelta, Long Island City, New York (2007) and Krasdale Gallery, White Plains, New York (2006). She has donated works to Volunteer Lawyers for the Arts, The Robert Di Libero Foundation, which provides services to under-financed patients suffering from Leukemia, Lymphoma, and related blood diseases, and to Streethaven at the Crossroads, in Toronto, Canada.

Soterakis currently paints fulltime in her studio on the North Shore of Long Island.
